

Bohorodczany (Brotchin) - after WWII

Bohorodchany (Brotchin)Community:

Vladimir LevinAuthor:

On March 31, 1944, a Soviet tank squadron attempted to conquer Bohorodchany but was pushed "Istoriia back by the Germans. The town was finally liberated by the Soviets on July 28, 1944 (86). Bohorodchaniv."

Only fifty or so Bohorodchany Jews survived the Holocaust in the area. Among the survivors were Koppelman ,Naftali Gold ,Buzsi Koenigsberg ,Benjamin Reuben families, Luster and Rothenbergthe , 350-5).Mark My Words M. Hasten., and others (David Schmertzler ,Chaim Bru,

No Jews returned to Bohorodchany after World War II.

In the Soviet years the synagogues were destroyed and the Jewish cemetery almost completely , 4).Grandeur and Glorydisappeared (

A monument to the Bohorodczany Jews was erected in the Jewish cemetery in Ivano-Frankivsk).photographsby the Hasten and Halpern families in August 2002 (see

, photographed in 2009.views of Bohorodczany and views of its Jewish cemetery See

07.08.2009Written on:

<http://www.jgaliciabukovina.net/he/node/134269>Source URL: